

ENVIRONMENTAL POLICY

For Resolute Forest Products, responsible environmental stewardship is both an ethical obligation and a business imperative, integral to our overall commitment to sustainable development. We recognize that the long-term future of our company and the communities where we operate depends on the sustainability of the natural resources in our care and the performance of our operations.

At Resolute, we are committed to:

- Meeting and striving to exceed all applicable legal and regulatory requirements, as well as the company's environmental commitments;
- Implementing and maintaining rigorous third-party-certified environmental management systems at our tissue, pulp and paper, wood products and hydroelectric facilities, as well as harvesting operations;
- Encouraging and maintaining the involvement, training, participation and full engagement of our employees, to ensure full compliance with our environmental policy;
- Identifying and implementing best practices, as well as supporting research, in our ongoing efforts to reduce the company's global environmental footprint and to continue to improve our management systems;
- Managing in a sustainable manner the natural resources in our care through manufacturing efficiencies, pollution prevention, waste reduction, beneficial use and recycling practices, and sustainable forest management;
- Conducting both self- and third-party audits, using specific indicators to assess our operations' environmental performance;
- Evaluating and mitigating the environmental risks associated with our current practices, and considering future impacts of contemplated changes to our manufacturing processes;
- Working in close collaboration with our suppliers to encourage them to reduce their own environmental footprint; and
- Communicating in a transparent and open manner with our stakeholders.

A handwritten signature in blue ink that reads 'Richard Garneau'.

Richard Garneau
President and Chief Executive Officer